100,000
minutes?

Greetings Earthlings...

My name is Wicchue and I have come a long distance to issue a challenge to St. Mary's. On my planet, we spend most of our lives reading about other cultures and planets.

I am working on my homework assignment which is due on December 2nd, 2011. In my Social Studies class, I need to challenge a school on another planet to read 100,000 minutes and then measure their results. My report must include the school's student community (including parents) as well as staff and faculty.

In my math class, I calculated if you each read 2 hours during your "Thanksgiving Break" then I will have succeeded in my goal! If you do this for me then my Headmaster said your Headmaster will issue a "free dress day" for the whole school.

Please fill out the bottom part of this form and turn it in to your Scholastic Book Fair in the MPR the week after your vacation.
